

Blackhole

In Blackhole players travel around the board collecting vowels, consonants and combination letters (for example sh, ar, ing). The tension builds as players near the black holes and risk losing all their letters. The first player to travel from the Earth, around our Solar System and back again on the Scoring-Wheel is the winner.

The combination letters provide a phonics component to the game. Together with being able to shuffle cards around, this makes the game accessible to children and helps dyslexics. Tactical elements to the game provide more challenge for adults.
