

Chairman of the Board

A family board game of skulduggery and dark dealing: in Chairman of the Board the players are competing to rise through the hierarchy of a company to join the board and take the chair.

Their first task is to acquire enough Company shares to gain access to the Promotion area. They will then have to manoeuvre to become a Manager. Their next target will be to acquire a Directorship and become Chairman.

Trading, dealing, bidding and bargaining are all part of the game. The cards players hold influence their decisions and determine their progress. When is it an opportune time to call and make your move? Is it wise to wait another hand? Have you chosen your right card to acquire your Company share? You can use your Veto card to block an opponent, but is it the right time?
