

Opus-Dei: Existence After Religion The World's FIRST Atheist Card Game!

Opus-Dei: Existence After Religion is a new, entertaining and irreverent card game that takes place in a universe where religion is almost completely something of the past. In this world without religious dogma, the players represent rival "Zeitgeists" competing in a battle of rational ideas to maintain ethics, morals and meaningful lives for all by virtue of reason!

When playing the game, a queue of philosophers, scientists and fools are lined up for each round. These are worth varying amounts of points, according to their intellectual status and magnitude. It is then up to each Zeitgeist, in their turn, to co-opt the best of them into their particular World by playing cards. The player with the most points in their World at the end of the game wins!

The 160 cards include massive amounts of encyclopaedic information about philosophy and science. This is presented with pictures and quotes that make the information accessible to all. At the same time, the strategic game play gives the game depth and replay value.
