

Games from the Ragnar Brothers

Blooming Gardens

The Ragnar brothers have combined stunning images from the Royal Horticultural Society with a card playing system that allows players to experience the delights of flower cultivation alongside the joy of outsmarting their fellow 'gardeners'. The game encourages strategic play but is also suitable for younger gamers who simply like unleashing 'pests' onto others' carefully nurtured Roses!

Monastery

Monastery is a tile laying game in which players construct different parts of a medieval monastery using their 'monks' – special pawns that can be upright or tipped forward into a 'praying' position. The monks may move from tile to tile and in addition to building work they can also study, toil or pray.

The game spreads over two days of monastic life, with turns being allocated as time for study and toil or for services in the abbey. In order to win players must collect letters to make up the abbey's motto. Points at the end of the two days are also awarded for the 'blessings' which players can collect throughout the game.
