Scripts and Scribes

In this card and dice game, players are abbots of medieval monasteries, competing to amass the greatest library of sacred books. To do this, they need the workers and resources to run a well-functioning scriptorium. In turn, this requires donations of gold – which are in limited supply.

Scripts and Scribes involves a good deal of strategic planning, some bluffing and a little bit of luck. The rules are easy to understand – though harder to master. The game plays differently with different numbers of players, but is equally fun and challenging.
