

Velo City

Everybody knows that bike messengers are fast. But which team is the fastest? Velo City pits teams of bike riders against each other through the city streets.

This is a dice game where players can choose to roll their die and move one of their cyclists. Alternatively, they can choose a group of cyclists and roll dice for all of them. The drawback to this latter option is that other players' riders may move as well.

There are obstacles to overcome along the way and opportunities to pick up extra energy drinks, which will boost players' cyclists and help with those obstacles. The game ends when a number of cyclists reach the end of the course and the winner is the player who's got most home.
